department was wheely discussed yester-day, and those favoring the scheme seem very hopeful that it will go through both branches of the Council and become law. The salient features of the ordinance are that it creates a board of health composed of five members instead of three, three of whom shall be medical doctors, one a civil engineer and the other a business man, and that full authority be given them in all matters relating to the public health, whereas it is now shared with the Committee on Health. The Board is to choose a chief health officer at a salary of $2,500, whereas the present one receives only $1,200. The Board is authorized to employ diagnostician at per diem compensation, and all the other officers connected with the health department are directly under the control of the Board. There is a strong sentiment in hoth branches for the ordinance. It will come up in the lower brackle on the first Monday view in

The Council Market Committee held a lengthy meeting last night. It was a called meeting to consider and act upon the report of the sub-committee on the First Market.

The report of the sub-committee, which has already been published in this paper, recommending vacating the First Market because of the unsafe condition of the building, was discussed at length. In fact, the entire time of the long meeting was taken up in discussion. The whole subject was gone over in detail, and the committeemen went up the hill and down agails. The final action of the sub-committee, with an additional recommendation to the Council that $2,000 be appropriated for the work of tearing down the Old Market building at Seventeenth and Main Streets. A resolution was then passed instructing the sub-committee to report a plan for restoring the Old Market house or suggesting some other disposition to be made of the property.

Superintendent of Public Instruction Joseph D. Eggleston received a letter from Nathan C. Shaeffer, Superintendent of Public Instruction of Pennsylvania, and president of the National Education Association, in regard to the appeal of Mr. Alfred Roncoviert, superintendent of common schools in San Francisco, for the general public to lend a helping hand in the rebuilding of the schools. In his appeal Mr. Roncoviert sets forth that the sarthquake and fire destroyed thirty schools, and that those remaining are damaged to the extint of thousands of dollars. Indeed, so great has been the immage done that the income for the public schools has been reduced one-halt. The public is reminded that the schools in Gaiveston were rebuild by the school relidence of the country, and Mr. Roncovieri would like this plan to be followed in the San Francisco case.

There will be a big ball game between the railroad clerks and the shops and trainmen, and many other games and contests. Every railroad man in the city is expected to be at the big raily Saturday night, whether he is a member or not.

One engineer, W. J. McAllister, of the Atlantic Coast Line, has secured forty-seven new members in four days, and A. A. McKuy, chief disputcher of the Atlantic Coast Line, has secured thirty-four new members in five days. The total number of new members secured during the month of May will reach four hundred by to-night's meeting, and the committee has set up a great organization to secure the last two hundred the closing week of the campaign. This will make the Railroad Association at Richmond the largest association (either city or railroad) in the State, and the railroad men of the city are taking a great deal of pride in making it so.

It is still an unsolved problem how many classes the same children attend, but they keep twenty-eight workers busy, some of them doing double duty-that is, serving in more than one department. The principal of the morning school is also principal of the might school, and eight of the morning school teachers teach in the night school.

Three of the nine departments were added this year-vocal music, physical training and nature study. Something had been attempted on these lines before, but now, under thoroughly efficient teachers, they will rank with all that is most popular and profitable in our work. The morning school in particular has profited.

In her report this morning, the principal said: "It has been a delight to watch the development of the children's minds and bodies under the special training in these three subjects, music, nature and physical training."

There is not time to review events and progress in each of these departments. Something of them you have heard tonight, in the reports submitted from the needlework, manual training, music, physical training and nature study departments. This morning the kindergarten interested audience which garhered in the Baptist Church hast night to see them get their honors. It was a great day in the history of Barton Heights education last night, when hundreds or fond parents and brothers and friends assembled in the little church across the street from the school-house and packed the house even to the doors and windows, and outside on the green grass. General joy prevailed, and music and eloquent addresses added pleasure to a scene made more enjoyable by heaps and piles of flowers, the fairest of which were the girl students of the school. The shughest of the school was of a high order and entirely justified the frequency with which their voices held the platform. In the line of speeches, the address of the evening was made by Dr. Woodward, of the Woman's College, who gave an interesting talk to the children and their parents on the practical vatues of education. In addition to these, Mr. John Stewart Bryan was called on to deliver the diplomas and medals, and he culled his choicest anecdotes to assail the risibles of his audience. His address to left grant an opening song by the school

After an opening song by the school Miss Adle Kuyk read a graduating essay on the "Environment Necessary for a Literary Life," and gave a few pointers to the numbers of youthful aspirants to literary honors in her audience.

Miss Zelda Fairlamb recited a taking selection entitled, "Angelina Johnson. Then there was another song by the school, "Soft, Soft Summer Clouds," and a recitation, "The Drummer Boy;" by James Satterwhite.

Dr. Wood was then introduced, and spoke along educational lines. Misses Kuyk, Scott and Stone sang Annie Laurie, on the conclusion of the fine address, and Mr. Brryan delivered the diplomas to Misses Adriama May Kuyk, Stella Madeleine James, Sarah Edna Bowman, Alice Jane Smith, Ethel May Binford, and Anna Leth Duncanson. In his charge to the young graduates of the year, Mr. Bryan pointed his moral with a tale of the kinghts of mediaeval times, who were, he said, clad in tin plates, with iron pots on their craniums and with long clothes poles in their hands to do battle with. This saily brought down the echool and friends, and the applause gave the speaker pause for a time.

Nice Legal Question.

Nice Legal Question.

The question as to whether or not Mr. D. L. Toney will have to secure a majority of votes to be elected a member of the Council from the Second Ward is one of more than passing interest to the citizens of the city. Mr. Toney was elected to the Assembly by the Council to fill the unexpired term of Mr. A. J. Daffron, who resigned his seat in the body. There are those who claim that Mr. Toney was chosen for the full term of Mr. Daffron and that he will not have to stand for re-election at all. Others say that one vote is sufficient to cleet him.

And there are those who claim that he will have to be one of the three candidates out of the six in the race who received the most votes before he can have a hold upon the office. In the meanwhile the fight is going on and the six candidates—Mossrs. Petit, Toney, Nunnally, Gallagher, Walch and Campbell—are each claiming the victory.

GOOD PERFORMANCE.

Gentry Brothers' Dog and Pony Shoy Draws Large Crowds.

Gentry Brothers' Dog and Pony Show appeared in Richmond yesterday and gave both a matinee and evening performance in their tents at Main and Vine Streets. Two large crowds attended and seemed well satisfied with the feats of trained dogs, ponies, monkeys, and elephants, and Japanase tumblers.

All of the animals are highly trained and some seemed imbued with almost human intelligence. A very orderly and well-behaved troup of acrobatic dogs was followed by four Japanese tumblers and balancing artists, one of whom was a child apparently not over five years old, who did some wonderful tumbling for one of his age. Master Thomas Gentry gave an excellent exhibition of fancy riding and horsemanship.

A troup of five elephants won much applause; their band came very nearly keeping time. Some musical ponies were also on hand and played home sweet home with bells attached to their heads. The kicking mule, and the negro, supposedly from the audience, who tried to ride him, brought forth roars of laughter from the spectators. An exciting rescue from the burning walls of a minature house, in which horses, dogs and monkey's took part, completed a very good performance.

The Lieutenant-Governor of New York, Hon. M. Linn Bruce; General A. G. McCook, and several others came over to this city from Petersburg last night yith a few friends on a flying trip and sight-seeing tour. They were entertained in Richmond during their short slay of a few hours by Mr. George W. Brown and Mr. Arwood, of the E. S. Rose Real Estate Company.

The party arrived here about 8 o'clock last night, and immediately took carriages to the old St. John's Church, where they were awaited by Messrs. Brown and Arwood. The keeper of the church, Signor Antony Graffigna, well known to all tourists, and who was enthusiastically remembered by one of the party of last night as having rendered his famous Patrick Henry speech in the church, then took the party in hand, and treated them to an intellectual feast in the way of his celebrated oration.

A Wit Explains. Humorists frequently have sad faces but humorists are not sad, because the are humorists. They are humorists because they are sad. Humor is born of acute sympathy, says Keble Howard, in the Sketch.
